

DISCLAIMER

Accreditation by the Commission on Accreditation for Home Care (CAHC) is not an endorsement or promotion of any of the services an accredited agency is providing, nor does it represent a guarantee by CAHC that any particular level of care will be provided to an individual. It is a reflection of CAHC 's evaluation and determination that the agency as a whole meets a standard of care that has been adopted for accreditation purposes in the State of New Jersey.

CAHCS ' decisions on accreditation are based on findings from providers at particular points in time. This means the quality of services offered by an accredited agency could change without CAHC's knowledge. The information on this website should therefore be used as a guide in making choices about which home care agency will best meet a consumer's needs. CAHC is not making a recommendation to utilize any particular organization's services and our accreditation status does not constitute medical advice in any way. Consumers and others who use this website are responsible for obtaining the additional information necessary to make informed decisions about their choice of health care providers. CAHC therefore expressly does not assume any liability for the quality of services provided by an accredited agency to any individual.
